

E-Learning Workshop (ELW-2009)

In Conjunction With
London International Conference on Education (LICE)
November 9-12, 2009, London, UK (www.liceducation.org)

Objectives

The aim of the E-Learning Workshop (ELW-2009) aims to address the main issues within E-Learning. ELW-2009 brings together researchers and practitioners interested in E-Learning. This workshop is expected to stimulate discussions about the future development of appropriate models, methods, and tools for building E-Learning.

Topics of Interest include but are not limited to:

- Organisational Strategy and Management Issues
- Technological Issues
- E-Learning Curriculum Development Issues
- Instructional Design Issues
- E-Learning Pedagogical Strategies
- Blended learning
- E-Learning Delivery Issues
- E-Learning Research Methods and Approaches
- E-Skills and Information Literacy for Learning
- Security and Privacy in E-Learning
- Security Issues on E-Learning Assessments

Important Dates

Paper Submission Deadline	September 20, 2009
Notification of Paper Acceptance/Rejection	September 25, 2009
Camera Ready Paper Due	September 30, 2009
Conference Dates	November 9-12, 2009

Paper Submission

The style file and templates is available at Paper Submission. Please submit your full paper(s) in PDF format via email to e-learning@liceducation.org

Workshop Chairs

Galyna Akmayeva, Wessex Institute of Technology / University of Wales, UK
Charles A. Shoniregun, Infonomics Society, UK
Kinshuk, Athabasca University, Canada

Technical Program Committee

Matteo Gaeta, University of Salerno, Italy
Vyacheslav Grebenyuk, Kharkiv National University of Radioelectronics (KNURE), Ukraine
Rashid Jayousi, Al-Quds University, Palestine
Victoria Repka, Kharkiv National University of Radioelectronics (KNURE), Ukraine
Gurmeet Singh, The University of the South Pacific, Fiji
Jongwook Woo, California State University, USA
Jeanne Schreurs, Hasselt University, Belgium